

If you needed guano clearance here tomorrow

you'd call: 0203 859 9588

At Fortis Property Services, we have professional teams who specialise in environmental clearance works, specifically large quantities of pigeon droppings (guano). This is not only unsightly but when it is dry and becomes airborne, it can cause respiratory issues. It is a known Health & Safety risk to employees, customers, tenants, and general members of the public. Our experts are equipped with the necessary protective gear and techniques to safely and efficiently remove the hazardous material, ensuring a healthier environment for all.

If you are experiencing problems with the build-up of pigeon guano, it will need to be disposed of professionally. Specific PPE should be worn when clearing pigeon guano. All removal projects are subject to consultation and a detailed survey, which will consider access arrangements, methods of clearance, disposal, and any surface rectification works. Proper handling and disposal are essential to prevent health risks associated with pigeon guano, such as respiratory infections. We ensure compliance with environmental regulations during the removal process and our team is trained to manage the risks of guano contamination safely and effectively. Simply contact us today to request a quotation.

We'll be there when you need us.
